

$~2

* IN THE HIGH COURT OF DELHI AT NEW DELHI

+ CRL.M.C. 442/2024

VINOD AGGARWAL & ORS.

..... Petitioners

Through: Mr. Aashish K. Singh, Advocate with all petitioners in person.

versus

STATE NCT OF DELHI AND ORS.

..... Respondents

Through: Mr. Digam Singh Dagar, APP for State with SI Sunit, PS Gandhi Nagar.

Ms. Anjali Nehra, Advocate for R-2 & R-3.

Respondent Nos. 2 & 3 are present through V/C.

CORAM:

HON'BLE MS. JUSTICE JYOTI SINGH

ORDER

12.02.2024

%

1. This is a petition filed on behalf of the Petitioners under Section 482 Cr.P.C. for quashing of FIR No. 12/2016 dated 08.01.2016 under Sections 323/354B/34 IPC registered at PS: Gandhi Nagar, Delhi, along with proceedings emanating therefrom. Subsequently, Charge Sheet was filed wherein Section 451 IPC was added.

2. As per the prosecution case, the Complainant alleged that Petitioners herein reside in the upper floor of her matrimonial house while she resides at ground floor. On 29.06.2015, Complainant was ill and her daughter P was busy in the kitchen, when at about 10:00 PM one unknown person forcibly entered in the kitchen and started molesting Complainant's daughter. Complainant tried to push him out of her house after slapping him and made a PCR call. Petitioners No. 1 to 3, on the other hand, threatened the Complainant for allegedly misbehaving with unknown person, who they happened to know. Accused Vinod Aggarwal hit the Complainant and her daughter and tore their clothes. Present FIR was thereafter registered and statement of the Complainant was recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C., in which she corroborated the allegations made in the initial complaint. Charge Sheet was filed under Sections 323/354B/451/34 IPC and charges have been framed against the accused.

3. During the pendency of the criminal proceedings, parties have amicably resolved their disputes and differences and a Settlement Deed dated 27.09.2023 has been executed between Petitioners and Respondent Nos. 2 and 3 whereby settlement has been arrived at on various issues including on the matrimonial disputes between Complainant/Respondent No. 2 and her husband Naresh Aggarwal. All cases wherever pending between the respective parties stand disposed of. Copy of the settlement deed has been placed on record.

4. Petitioners and Respondents No. 2 and 3 are present in Court and are identified by their respective counsels as well as the Investigating Officer SI Sunit, PS: Gandhi Nagar. Complainant has no objection to the FIR being quashed as all disputes have been amicably settled. Learned APP on behalf of the State also states that he has no objection to the quashing of the FIR, in view of the settlement between the parties.

5. The Supreme Court in Gian Singh v. State of Punjab and Another, (2012) 10 SCC 303, observed that while exercising inherent powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. in respect of quashing of an FIR where parties have entered into amicable resolution of the disputes, one of the considerations would be whether it would be unfair or contrary to the interest of justice to continue the criminal proceedings despite the compromise and if the answer to the question is in the affirmative, the High Court would be well within its jurisdiction to quash the criminal proceedings, in order to ensure that the disputes are put to an end and peace is restored as securing the ends of justice is the ultimate guiding factor. This was of-course with a caveat that heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, dacoity etc. cannot be fittingly quashed even though the victim or the victim's family settles the disputes with the offender. Relevant paragraphs of the judgment are as follows: -

“55. In the very nature of its constitution, it is the judicial obligation of the High Court to undo a wrong in course of administration of justice or to prevent continuation of unnecessary judicial process. This is founded on the legal maxim quando lex aliquid alicui concedit, conceditur et id sine qua res ipsa esse non potest. The full import of which is whenever anything is authorised, and especially if, as a matter of duty, required to be done by law, it is found impossible to do that thing unless something else not authorised in express terms be also done, may also be done, then that something else will be supplied by necessary intendment. Ex debito justitiae is inbuilt in such exercise; the whole idea is to do real, complete and substantial justice for which it exists. The power possessed by the High Court under Section 482 of the Code is of wide amplitude but requires exercise with great caution and circumspection.

xxx

xxx

xxx

58. Where the High Court quashes a criminal proceeding having regard to the fact that the dispute between the offender and the victim has been settled although the offences are not compoundable, it does so as in its opinion, continuation of criminal proceedings will be an exercise in futility and justice in the case demands that the dispute between the parties is put to an end and peace is restored; securing the ends of justice being the ultimate guiding factor. No doubt, crimes are acts which have harmful effect on the public and consist in wrongdoing that seriously endangers and threatens the well-being of the society and it is not safe to leave the crime-doer only because he and the victim have settled the dispute amicably or that the victim has been paid compensation, yet certain crimes have been made compoundable in law, with or without the permission of the court. In respect of serious offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc., or other offences of mental depravity under IPC or offences of moral turpitude under special statutes, like the Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by public servants while working in that capacity, the settlement between the offender and the victim can have no legal sanction at all. However, certain offences which overwhelmingly and predominantly bear civil flavour having arisen out of civil, mercantile, commercial, financial, partnership or such like transactions or the offences arising out of matrimony, particularly relating to dowry, etc. or the family dispute, where the wrong is basically to the victim and the offender and the victim have settled all disputes between them amicably, irrespective of the fact that such offences have not been made compoundable, the High Court may within the framework of its inherent power, quash the criminal proceeding or criminal complaint or FIR if it is satisfied that on the face of such settlement, there is hardly any likelihood of the offender being convicted and by not quashing the criminal proceedings, justice shall be casualty and ends of justice shall be defeated. The above list is illustrative and not exhaustive. Each case will depend on its own facts and no hard-and-fast category can be prescribed.

xxx

xxx

xxx

61. The position that emerges from the above discussion can be summarised thus: the power of the High Court in quashing a criminal proceeding or FIR or complaint in exercise of its inherent jurisdiction is distinct and different from the power given to a criminal court for compounding the offences under Section 320 of the Code. Inherent power is of wide plenitude with no statutory limitation but it has to be exercised in accord with the guideline engrafted in such power viz.: (i) to secure the ends of justice, or (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of any court. In what cases power to quash the criminal proceeding or complaint or FIR may be exercised where the offender and the victim have settled their dispute would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case and no category can be prescribed. However, before exercise of such power, the High Court must have due regard to the nature and gravity of the crime. Heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. cannot be fittingly quashed even though the victim or victim's family and the offender have settled the dispute. Such offences are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society. Similarly, any compromise between the victim and the offender in relation to the offences under special statutes like the Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by public servants while working in that capacity, etc.; cannot provide for any basis for quashing criminal proceedings involving such offences. But the criminal cases having overwhelmingly and predominately civil flavour stand on a different footing for the purposes of quashing, particularly the offences arising from commercial, financial, mercantile, civil, partnership or such like transactions or the offences arising out of matrimony relating to dowry, etc. or the family disputes where the wrong is basically private or personal in nature and the parties have resolved their entire dispute. In this category of cases, the High Court may quash the criminal proceedings if in its view, because of the compromise between the offender and the victim, the possibility of conviction is remote and bleak and continuation of the criminal case would put the accused to great oppression and prejudice and extreme injustice would be caused to him by not quashing the criminal case despite full and complete settlement and compromise with the victim. In other words, the High Court must consider whether it would be unfair or contrary to the interest of justice to continue with the criminal proceeding or continuation of the criminal proceeding would tantamount to abuse of process of law despite settlement and compromise between the victim and the wrongdoer and whether to secure the ends of justice, it is appropriate that the criminal case is put to an end and if the answer to the above question(s) is in the affirmative, the High Court shall be well within its jurisdiction to quash the criminal proceeding."

6. Parties have mutually settled all their disputes and differences. Respondent No. 2 acknowledges having received the total settlement amount. In view of the settlement between the parties and the categorical stand of Respondent No.2 that she does not want to pursue the complaint, no useful purpose will be achieved in continuing the criminal proceedings emanating from the subject FIR as the chances of conviction are bleak and it would be in the interest of justice that the proceedings are terminated. This Court is fortified in its view by the orders of this Court in Satish and Ors. v. State NCT of Delhi and Ors., in CRL.M.C. 3801/2023 decided on 20.07.2023, and Rahul Chaudhary Alias Mannu and Anr. v. State and Anr., in CRL.M.C. 6324/2023 decided on 18.10.2023, where the Courts have quashed FIRs under similar provisions, predicated on settlement between the parties, in the interest of justice. Accordingly, FIR No. 12/2016 under Sections 323/354-B/34 IPC registered at PS: Gandhi Nagar, Delhi is quashed including proceedings emanating therefrom.

7. Petition stands allowed and disposed of.

JYOTI SINGH, J

FEBRUARY 12, 2024/akc