1. Earlier in the first call, none was present for petitioners, so matter was passed over awaiting counsel for petitioners. However, learned counsel for respondent was present in the earlier call as well.

2. It is submitted by learned counsel for respondent that possession of subject premises involved in all these cases stand restored to the respondent/landlord in the execution proceedings way back in the year 2019.
3. Since none appears for petitioners even in this second call at 3:45 pm, all these petitions and pending applications are dismissed in default.
