Learned counsel appearing on behalf of petitioner submitted that the matter has already been settled between the parties amicably before the learned Labour Commissioner. Therefore, nothing is left in the instant petition for further adjudication.

The petitioner appearing in-person has fairly conceded to the aforesaid factum.

Learned counsel appearing on behalf of respondents also does not have any objection to the submission made on behalf of petitioner.

In view of the above, nothing survives in the present petition for further adjudication. Accordingly, the instant petition alongwith pending
