1 Though we have the affidavit of respondent no.2 before us where she has accorded her no objection for quashing of the subject FIR, by indicating that, on due consideration, she had taken a voluntary decision to put an end to the proceedings initiated at her instance as she has decided to move ahead in life.

 We find that the affidavit also make an attempt to rebut the pleadings in the petition, praying for quashing of the subject FIR.

We indicated to the learned counsel representing respondent no.2 that she should file a simple affidavit making her intention clear that she want to put a full stop to the proceedings on due consideration, and it shall not be in form of any allegations or counter response to the proceedings.
