Vocational Instructor and thereafter, she was appointed as full time Vocational Instructor. She had retired from service on attaining the age of superannuation. While considering the qualified period for pension, it had been contended that the petitioner's service as part time Vocational Instructor should also be taken into consideration and 50% of that period should be added along with the regular service. In this connection, the petitioner had given a representation to the respondents.

3. The learned counsel for the petitioner stated that calculation of 50% of service as part time Vocational Instructor also to be included while examining the total period of service rendered for calculation of pension it had been held by the Division Bench of this Court in W.A.(MD).No.347 of 2020 batch, wherein the Division Bench by order dated 29.08.2022 had affirmed that 50% of service as part time Vocational Instructor must be taken into consideration for determining the qualified period of service for calculation of pension.

4. A mandamus is issued to the respondents to examine the service
