2. The case of the prosecution is that due to a wordy quarrel, the petitioners assaulted the de facto complainant with a wooden stick.

3. The learned counsel appearing for the petitioners submitted that the petitioners are innocent; that they have been falsely implicated in this case; that the petitioners and the de facto complainant are relatives; that the petitioners have no bad antecedents and in any case, custodial interrogation of the petitioners is not required and sought anticipatory bail.

4. The learned Government Advocate (Crl. Side) appearing for the respondent police, while opposing the grant of anticipatory bail to the petitioners, reiterated the prosecution case and on instructions, submitted that the injured sustained simply injuries and was treated as an out patient; and the petitioners have no bad antecedents.

5. Considering the nature of the allegations, the fact that the injured sustained simply injuries and was treated as an out patient, the petitioners have no bad antecedents and since, custodial interrogation is
