The learned Judicial Magistrate, Tambaram is directed to scrutinise the final report in accordance with law and pass further orders thereon within one week from the date of receipt of the web copy of the order.

3. It is stated that in the said court and also in other Courts in the District, the matters are pending after filing of the final reports through e-filing. Since after introduction of the e-filing system, huge number of final reports were filed and there were some hiccups in the functioning of the system which includes the training of the staff, internet speed and the final reports being first directed to the Chief Judicial Magistrate and thereafter forwarded to the Judicial Magistrate etc, and there has been piling up of these matters. Therefore, a copy of this order is directed to be placed before the learned Principal District Judge, Chengalpattu who shall look into the matter and if necessary, by giving overtime to the staff concerned, even by asking the willing staff to come on Saturdays and Sundays or by allocating additional staff members, by any other method feasible, take such steps to clear of the pending arrears that are already e-
