3. Mr.S.Senthil, learned counsel for the writ petitioner states that he is not seriously opposing the impleading petition.

4. In any event, it is on the objections made by the proposed party that the petitioner's application for final approval has not been taken up by the said authorities. The presence of the impleading party might not be strictly necessary, but he is a proper party in whose absence this Court cannot come to a conclusion. Hence, this Miscellaneous Petition is ordered.
