3. The petitioners are wife and daughter of the respondent. The 1st petitioner got married with the respondent on 02.09.2013 and gave birth to the 2nd petitioner herein. Due to misunderstanding between them, the petitioners were driven out of the matrimonial home and the petitioners were living separately, therefore, the petitioners were not able to maintain themselves. Hence the petitioners have filed a petition for maintenance. Admittedly, the respondent is working as a Production Manager and drawing a sum of Rs.80,000/- as salary. Considering the said facts and circumstances, the trial court ordered maintenance of Rs.7,000/- each to the petitioners. Aggrieved by the same, the petitioners have come up with the present Revision for enhancement of amount.

4. Even according to the petitioners, the respondent is working as Production Manager and drawing a salary around a sum of Rs.80,000/-, now, the petitioners have stated that the respondent is drawing a sum of Rs.1,00,000/- as salary, however, there is no evidence to prove the same. Therefore, the trial court rightly awarded maintenance of Rs.7,000/- each to the petitioners and this Court finds no reason to enhance the same, therefore, the present Revision is dismissed. However, the petitioners are at liberty to file a
