3. The petitioner submitted a representation seeking terminal benefits before the fourth respondent. On receipt of such representation, the fourth respondent submitted a proposal to the third respondent. However, the third respondent returned the proposal for want of some defects.

4. A perusal of the records reveals that the third respondent raised an issue regarding the wives of the petitioner. Even assuming that there is a dispute between two wives, the petitioner, who retired from service, is very much alive and is entitled for the benefits. Only after the life time of the petitioner would any question regarding the entitlement of the wives arise.

5. In view of the above, the fourth respondent is directed to resubmit the
