The petitioner, who was arrested and remanded to judicial custody on 23.02.2025 for the offences punishable under Sections 8(c) r/w. 20(b) (ii)(C), 25 and 29(1) of NDPS Act, in Crime No.569 of 2024 on the file of the respondent police, seeks bail.

2. The case of the prosecution is that on 15.10.2024 at about 16.00 hours, based on the secret information the Special Sub Inspector of Police along with his team intercepted an Ashok Leyland Lorry bearing Regn.No.TN 64 AA 0127 near the Trichy – Madurai Four Way Tack. Upon seeing the Police, the driver of the Lorry attempted to flee. However, the Police Team had apprehended A1, conducted a search and found that the accused were transporting 85 kgs of Ganja and seized the contraband. Based on the confession of co-accused the petitioner herein was arrayed as accused No.7. Hence, the case.

3. The learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that based on the confession of co-accused only the petitioner herein was arrayed as accused. Further submitted that the co-accused viz., 2, 3, 5 and 6 were already arrested and released on bail by this Court in Crl.O.P.(MD)Nos. 7349 and 947 of 2025 respectively, vide order dated 23.04.2025 and 27.01.2025 respectively. He further submitted that the petitioner is ready and willing to abide by any conditions which may be imposed by this Court and she is in judicial custody from 23.02.2025. Hence, he seeks bail to the petitioner.

4. The learned Additional Public Prosecutor submitted that there is one previous case pending against the petitioner and the investigation is still pending. Hence, he opposed for grant of bail to the petitioner.

5. In the present case, the twin test stated under section 37 of NDPS Act ought to be considered and the said section is extracted hereunder:

37. Offences to be cognizable and non-bailable.—

(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974),

- (a) every offence punishable under this Act shall be cognizable;
- (b) no person accused of an offence punishable for 3 offences under section 19 or section 24 or

CRL OP(MD), No.9411 of 2025

section 27A and also for offences involving commercial quantity shall be released on bail or on his own bond unless—

(i) the Public Prosecutor has been given an opportunity to oppose the application for such release, and

(ii) where the Public Prosecutor opposes the application, the court is satisfied that there are reasonable grounds for believing that he is not guilty of such offence and that he is not likely to commit any offence while on bail.

(2) The limitations on granting of bail specified in clause (b) of sub-section (1) are in addition to the limitations under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974) or any other law for the time being in force on granting of bail.

6. The section states to issue notice to the Public Prosecutor. This Court had issued notice to the Public Prosecutor, who in turn had filed objections and opposed to grant bail. Hence the said condition is satisfied.

7. The section further states if the Public Prosecutor opposes the bail, then the court ought to satisfy itself the twin test,

- (i) that there are reasonable grounds for believing that he is not guilty of such offence and
- (ii) that he is not likely to commit any offence while

8. In the present case, it is seen that one another previous case was registered against the petitioner in Crime No.10 of 2025 by the Melur Police Station, in which, the petitioner herein was found in possession of 1.11 kgs, which is only small quantity. Further it is seen that there is confession while investigating the offence in Crime No.10/2025, hence the petitioner was implicated in Crime No. 569 of 2024 and this fact is stated in the counter filed by the prosecution. It is settled proposition of law that the confession cannot be a sole ground for convicting a person.

9. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Karan Talwar vs. the State of Tamil Nadu in SLP (Crl.) No.10736 of 2022 has held that mere confession of the co-accused by itself cannot be the reason for his implicating in the crime and discharged the accused from the NDPS case. The relevant portion is extracted hereunder:

“10. As is evident from the said Section, the alleged offence is consumption of narcotic drug or psychotropic substance other than those specified in or under clause (a) of Section 27, NDPS

Act, and therefore, the question is whether any material is available to charge the appellant thereunder. The contention of the appellant is that he has been arraigned as accused No.13 based on the confession statement of co-accused viz., accused No.1. Certainly, in the absence of any other material on record to connect the appellant with the crime, the confession statement of the co-accused by itself cannot be the reason for his implication in the crime. This view has been fortified by the law laid down in Suresh Budharmal Kalani Vs. State of Maharashtra, wherein it was stated that a co-accused's confession containing incriminating matter against a person would not by itself suffice to frame charge against him. The materials on record would reveal that the investigating agency had (1998) 7 SCC 337; 1998 INSC 364 not subjected him to medical examination and instead, going by complaint Witness No.23, he smelt the accused. The less said the better and we do not think it necessary to comment upon adoption of such a course. We need only to say that even if he tendered such evidence, it would not help the prosecution in anyway. There is absolutely no case that any recovery of contraband was recovered from the appellant. As regards the confession statement of the appellant in view of Section 25 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 there can be no doubt with respect to the fact that it is inadmissible in evidence. In this context it is worthy to refer to the decision of this Court in Ram Singh v. Central Bureau of Narcotics<sup>4</sup>. In the said decision, this Court held that Section 25 of the Indian Evidence Act would make confessional statement of accused before police inadmissible in evidence and it could not be brought on record by prosecution to obtain conviction. Shortly stated, except the confessional statement of co-accused No.1 there is absolutely no material available on record against the appellant.”

10. In Surinder Kumar Khanna Vs. Intelligence Officer, the Directorate of Revenue Intelligence reported in 2018 8 SCC 271 it has been held as under:

“12. The law laid down in Kashmira Singh (supra) was approved by a Constitution Bench of this Court in Hari Charan Kurmi and Jogia Hajam v. State of Bihar<sup>11</sup> wherein it was observed:

“As we have already indicated, this question has been considered on several occasions by judicial decisions and it has been consistently held that a confession cannot be treated as evidence which is substantive evidence against a co-accused person. In dealing with a criminal case where the prosecution relies upon the confession of one accused person against another accused person, the proper approach to adopt is to consider the other evidence against such an accused person, and if the said evidence appears to be satisfactory and the court is inclined to hold that the said evidence may sustain the charge framed against the said accused person, the court turns to the confession with a view to assure itself that the conclusion which it is inclined to draw from the other evidence is right. As was observed by Sir Lawrence Jenkins in Emperor v. Lalit Mohan Chuckerburty a confession can only be used to “lend assurance to other evidence against a co-accused”. In re Periyaswami Moopan Reilly. J., observed that the provision of Section 30 goes not further than this:

“where there is evidence against the co-accused sufficient, if believed, to support his conviction, then the kind of confession described in Section 30 may be thrown into the scale as an additional reason for believing that evidence”.

In Bhuboni Sahu v. King the Privy Council has expressed the same view. Sir John Beaumont who spoke for the Board, observed that “a confession of a co-accused is obviously evidence of a very weak type. It does not indeed come within the definition of “evidence” contained in Section 3 of the Evidence Act. It is not required to be given on oath, nor in the presence of the accused, and it cannot be tested by cross-examination. It is a much weaker type of evidence than the evidence of an approver, which is not subject to any of those infirmities. Section 30, however, provides that the court may take the confession into consideration and thereby, no doubt, makes it evidence on which the court may act; but the section does not say that the confession is to amount to proof. Clearly there must be other evidence. The confession is only one element in the consideration of all the facts proved the case; it can be put into the scale and weighed with the other evidence”.

It would be noticed that as a result of the provisions contained in Section 30, the confession has no doubt to be regarded as amounting to evidence in a general way, because whatever is considered by the court is evidence; circumstances which are considered by the court as well as probabilities do amount to evidence in that generic sense. Thus, though confession may be regarded as evidence in that generic sense because of the provisions of Section 30, the fact remains that it is not evidence as defined by Section 3 of the Act. The result, therefore, is that in dealing with a case against an accused person, the court cannot start with the confession of a co-accused person; it must begin with other evidence adduced by the prosecution and after it has formed its opinion with regard to the quality and effect of the said evidence, then it is permissible to turn to the confession in order to receive assurance to the conclusion of guilt which the judicial mind is about to reach on the said other evidence. That, briefly stated, is the effect of the provisions contained in Section 30. The same view has been expressed by this Court in Kashmira Singh v. State of Madhya Pradesh where the decision of the Privy Council in Bhuboni Sahu case has been cited with approval.”

13. The law so laid down has always been followed by this Court except in cases where there is a specific provision in law making such confession of a co-accused admissible against another accused.”

In the present case as stated supra the petitioner was not in possession of the contraband and it is based on the confession the petitioner was implicated. Hence, the first test of ‘chance of conviction’ is favouring the petitioner. Therefore, this Court is of the considered opinion that the petitioner deserves to be considered for bail.

11. As far as the 2nd sub clause is concerned it is seen

Further, the petitioner is having only one previous case that too lesser quantity, according to the petitioner the same is put up case. Hence the second test of “likely to commit the same offence” may not support the case of the prosecution. Therefore, petitioner is entitled to be considered for the bail.

12. Further it is seen the co-accused viz., 2, 3, 5 and 6 were already arrested and released on bail by this Court in Crl.O.P.(MD)Nos.7349 and 947 of 2025 respectively, vide order dated 23.04.2025 and 27.01.2025. Since most of the accused are already on bail, the petitioner is also entitled to bail based on long incarceration. Moreover, the specific overt act against the petitioner is that A3 has transferred money to A4 using the petitioner / A7 and the petitioner in turn used his wife mobile number and indulged in money transaction.

13. Taking into consideration of the facts and circumstances of the case and also considering the period of incarceration suffered by the petitioner and for the reasons stated supra, this court is inclined to grant bail to the petitioner, subject to the following conditions.

14. Accordingly, the petitioner is ordered to be released on bail on
