WP(MD). No.25179 of 2025

submit that survey has now been conducted and the allegation of encroachment has been found to be partly correct in as much as though an encroachment has been found on S.No.102, which is classified as water body, no encroachment has been found on Government land (dry land) comprised in S.No.101/7.

2. Having found that survey has now been conducted, we are inclined to dispose of the petition with a direction to the respondent authorities to initiate appropriate proceedings under the Land Encroachment Act against the persons, who are found to have encroached upon the lands comprised in S.No.102, i.e., water body, and complete the proceedings within an outer limit of three months.

Needless to say that the persons against whom action is proposed to be taken shall be afforded an opportunity of hearing.

3. Though learned counsel for the petitioner disputes the correctness of the survey which has been conducted in so far as land in S.No.101/7 is concerned, in view of the statement made by the learned State counsel that there is a remedy of appeal, we leave it open to the petitioner to work out her remedy in the manner known to law with regard to land comprised in S.No.101/7.
