Samanpreet Kaur @ Sumanpreet Kaur, Sawaran Singh @ Swaran Singh, Ranvir Singh @ Bunty, Birdevinder Singh @ Veerdawinder Singh @ Sahil, Amarjit Singh, Lakhvir Singh, Harshdeep Singh, Gurpreet Singh @ Kali, Ranjeet Singh @ Jiti and Lovepreet Singh @ Papla, in FIR No.47 dated 25.10.2024, which was registered U/S 118(1), 115 (2), 351, 191 (3), 190 of BNS at Police Station Kheri Naudh Singh and cross-case based upon DDR/Rapat No.25 dated 06.11.2024 Under Section 115 (2), 126 (2), 351, 3(5) of BNS at Police Station Kheri Naudh Singh (as per statement of Investigating officer), in the same FIR, it comes out that the parties of the present petition (i.e. above named persons only) have compromised the matter with their free will and full senses and all the complainant and injured named above are the party to the compromise. So this compromise between the above named parties to the petition (i.e. Gurjit Singh @ Gura, Beant Singh, Major Singh, Navjot Singh, Amandeep Kaur. Samanpreet Kaur @ Sumanpreet Kaur, Sawaran Singh @ Swaran Singh, Ranvir Singh @ Bunty, Birdevinder Singh @ Veerdawinder Singh @ Sahil, Amarjit Singh, Lakhvir Singh, Harshdeep Singh, Gurpreet Singh @ Kali, Ranjeet Singh @ Jiti and Lovepreet Singh @ Papla) appears to be genuine & valid qua them...”

9. Hon’ble the Supreme Court in Gian Singh v. State of Punjab, (2012) 10 SCC 303, has held as under:-

“61. The position that emerges from the above discussion can be summarised thus : the power of the High Court in quashing a criminal proceeding or FIR or complaint in exercise of its inherent jurisdiction is distinct and different from the power given to a criminal court for compounding the offences under Section 320 of the Code. Inherent power is of wide plenitude with no statutory limitation but it has to be exercised in accord with the guideline engrafted in such power viz. : (i) to secure the ends of justice, or (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of any court. In what cases power to quash the criminal proceeding or complaint or FIR may be exercised where the offender and the victim have settled their dispute would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case and no category can be prescribed. However, before exercise of such power, the High Court must have due regard to the nature and gravity of the crime. Heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. cannot be fittingly quashed even though the victim or victim's family and the offender have settled the dispute. Such offences are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society. Similarly, any compromise between the victim and the offender in relation to the offences under special statutes like the Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by public servants while working in that capacity, etc.; cannot provide for any basis for quashing criminal proceedings involving such offences. But the criminal cases having overwhelmingly and predominatingly civil flavour stand on a different footing for the purposes of quashing, particularly the offences arising from commercial, financial, mercantile, civil, partnership or such like transactions or the offences arising out of matrimony relating to dowry, etc. or the family disputes where the wrong is basically private or personal in nature and the parties have resolved their entire dispute. In this category of cases, the High Court may quash the criminal proceedings if in its view, because of the compromise between the offender and the victim, the possibility of conviction is remote and bleak and continuation of the criminal case would put the accused to great oppression and prejudice and extreme injustice would be caused to him by not quashing the criminal case despite full and complete settlement and compromise with the victim. In other words, the High Court must consider whether it would be unfair or contrary to the interest of justice to continue with the criminal proceeding or continuation of the criminal proceeding would tantamount to abuse of process of law despite settlement and compromise between the victim and the wrongdoer and whether to secure the ends of justice, it is appropriate that the criminal case is put to an end and if the answer to the above question(s) is in the affirmative, the High Court shall be well within its jurisdiction to quash the criminal proceeding.”

10. In view of above discussion, this Court is fully convinced that the offence is entirely personal in nature and does not involve public peace or tranquility. Thus, quashing of the FIR in question along with consequential proceedings, on the basis of compromise would bring peace and harmony to secure the ends of justice.

11. Consequently, present petition is allowed; aforesaid FIR along with all consequential proceedings resulting therefrom are quashed qua the petitioners.

Pending application(s), if any, shall also stand disposed off.
