

205

IN THE HIGH COURT OF PUNJAB AND HARYANA AT CHANDIGARH

CRR-1402-2014

Date of decision: 07.05.2025

Rekha and another

....Petitioners

Versus

State of Punjab

...Respondent

CORAM: HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE HARPREET SINGH BRAR

Present: Mr. Aseem Kataria, Advocate for the petitioners.

Mr. Sandeep Kumar, DAG, Punjab.

HARPREET SINGH BRAR, J. (ORAL)

1. This revision has been preferred against the judgment dated 15.04.2014 passed by learned Judge, Special Court, Fazilka, vide which, judgment of conviction and order of sentence dated 06.01.2014 passed by learned Juvenile Justice Board, Fazilka (hereinafter 'JJB'), in case stemming from FIR bearing No.157 dated 21.11.2010 registered under Sections 15/61/85 of the NDPS Act at Police Station Sadar, Abohar, has been upheld. The petitioners were sentenced as under:

Offence	Sentence
15 of the NDPS Act	03 months each at the Special Juvenile Home, Hoshiarpur

2. The case set up by the prosecution is that a police party headed by ASI Kuldeep Singh was on patrolling duty and were going from village Churi Wala Dhanna to Patrewala and when they reached near 'T' point Khippanwali, they noticed the petitioners were coming on scooter carrying a gunny bag. They were apprehended with 15 Kgs of Poppy Husk. Two samples of 250 grams each were drawn from the bag and then the same were sent to the chemical examiner. Subsequently, FIR (supra) was registered under Sections 15/61/85 of the NDPS Act.

3. On assessing all the material available on the record, the petitioners were convicted vide judgment dated 06.01.2014 by the learned JJB, Fazilka. Aggrieved by the same, the petitioners preferred an appeal which was dismissed by the learned lower Appellate Court vide judgment dated 15.04.2014.

4. Learned counsel for petitioners, at the outset, submits that he is not assailing the impugned judgment of conviction dated 06.01.2014 on merits as the petitioners have already spent two and a half months at the Special Juvenile Home as directed by the Juvenile Justice Board for the offence under the NDPS Act and restricts his prayer to modification of the order on quantum of sentence, to that of the sentence already undergone by the petitioners.

5. Per contra, learned State counsel opposes the prayer of learned counsel for the petitioners as the learned JJB has passed a well-reasoned judgment based on correct appreciation of evidence available on record and the same has also been upheld by the learned lower Appellate Court. As such, the petitioners do not deserve any leniency.

6. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record with their able assistance.

7. The legislature has consistently made it clear that a juvenile delinquent must only be remanded to a special home, which is evidenced by the fact that both Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000 (hereinafter 'the Act of 2000') as well Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 (hereinafter 'the Act of 2015') contain specific provision to that effect. Section 15(1)(g) of the Act of 2000 reads as follows:

15 . Order that may be passed regarding juvenile.-

(1) Where a Board is satisfied on inquiry that a juvenile has committed an offence, then, notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in any other law for the time being in force, the Board may, if it thinks so fit,-

xxx

xxx

xxx

(g) make an order directing the juvenile to be sent to a special home,-

(i) in the case of juvenile, over seventeen years but less than eighteen years of age for a period of not less than two years;

(ii) in case of any other juvenile for the period until he ceases to be a juvenile:

Provided that the Board may, if it is satisfied that having regard to the nature of the offence and the circumstances of the case it is expedient so to do, for reasons to be recorded, reduce the period of stay to such period as it thinks fit.

While Section 18(1)(g) of the Act of 2015 reads as follows:

18. Orders regarding child found to be in conflict with law.—

(1) Where a Board is satisfied on inquiry that a child irrespective of age has committed a petty offence, or a serious offence, or a child below the age of sixteen years has committed a heinous offence, or a child above the age of sixteen years has committed a heinous offence and the Board has, after preliminary assessment under Section 15, disposed of the matter then, notwithstanding anything contrary contained in any other law for the time being in force, and based on the nature of offence, specific need for supervision or intervention, circumstances as brought out in the social investigation report and past conduct of the child, the Board may, if it so thinks fit,—

xxx

xxx

xxx

(g) direct the child to be sent to a special home, for such period, not exceeding three years, as it thinks fit, for providing reformatory services including education, skill development, counselling, behaviour modification therapy, and psychiatric support during the period of stay in the special home"

8. As such, it is the mandate of law to remand a juvenile offender, tried under the Act of 2000 or the Act of 2015, to a special home only, on establishment of his/her guilt. It is trite law that if a certain method is prescribed by law, it must be followed to accomplish that specific task, necessarily forbidding the use of other methods. Reliance in this regard can be placed on the judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Dharani Sugars and Chemicals Ltd. vs. Union of India and others (2019) 5 SCC 480. Therefore, since a special law occupies the field and categorically prescribes for a juvenile delinquent to only be sent to a special home, they cannot be remanded to any other correctional facilities. However, due to the time consumed in adjudicating upon the revision petition filed by them, the petitioners, originally convicted as a juvenile, have now attained majority. Therefore, they cannot be ordered to undergo the sentence imposed upon them in a special home or a regular penitentiary. As such, this Court is of the considered opinion that ends of justice will be met if the sentence imposed upon the the petitioners is reduced to that already undergone by them.

9. A two Judge bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Mahesh vs. State of Rajasthan and others 2018(2) R.C.R.(Criminal) 687, dealt with a similar matter wherein the accused was convicted as a juvenile but had attained majority at the time of decision of the appeal. Taking into account the efflux of time and the fact that the accused was now a middle aged man who cannot be sent to a remand home, the following observations were made:

“9. The present is a case where the accused appellants though juveniles on the date of commission of the alleged crime are, as on today, middle aged persons. The accused appellant - Mahesh in Criminal Appeal arising out of Special Leave Petition (Criminal) No.2934 of 2015 had undergone the custody for a period of nearly one year whereas the accused appellant - Arjun in Criminal Appeal arising out of Special Leave Petition (Criminal) No.5370 of 2015 had suffered custody for about eight (08) months. The maximum sentence, as already noted, is three years. Having regard to the long efflux of time we are of the view that it will not be necessary, in the facts of the present cases, to cause a remand of the matter to the Juvenile Justice Board for a decision on the quantum of sentence for the reason even if such a remand is made and the Juvenile Justice Board comes to a decision that in addition to the period of custody suffered by the accused appellants they need to suffer a further period of custody, such custody can only be in a remand home or a protection home to which places the accused appellants, because of their age as on today, cannot be sent.

10. On the contrary, having regard to the period of custody suffered; the age of the accused appellants as on date; the efflux of time since the date of occurrence and all other relevant facts and circumstances we are of the view that while maintaining the conviction of the accused appellants the sentence imposed should be modified to one of the period undergone. We order accordingly.” (emphasis added)

Reliance in this regard can also be placed upon the judgments rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Babban Rai and another vs. State of Bihar (2007)13 SCC 88, Pradeep Kumar vs. State of U.P. 1994 AIR SC 104 and this Court in Sanjay alias Kala vs. State of Haryana 2011(2) R.C.R. (Criminal) 899, Rajesh Kumar vs. State of Haryana 2011(1) R.C.R. (Criminal) 830 and Rohit vs. State of Haryana in CRR-56-2017 decided on 31.10.2017.

10. In Deo Narain Mandal v. State State of UP (2004) 7 SCC 257, a Three Judge Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court has opined that awarding of sentence is not a mere formality in criminal cases. When a minimum and maximum term is prescribed by the statute with regard to the period of sentence, a discretionary element is vested in the Court. Background of each case, which includes factors like gravity of the offence, manner in which the offence is committed, age of the accused, should be considered while determining the quantum of sentence and this discretion is not to be used arbitrarily or whimsically. After assessing all relevant factors, proper sentence should be awarded bearing in mind the principle of proportionality to ensure the sentence is neither excessively harsh nor does it come across as lenient. Further, a two Judge Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ravada Sasikala vs. State of AP AIR 2017 SC 1166, has reiterated that the imposition of sentence also serves a social purpose as it acts as a deterrent by making the accused realise the damage caused not only to the victim but also to the society at large. The law in this regard is well settled that opportunities of reformation must be granted and such discretion is to be exercised by evaluating all attending circumstances of each case by noticing the nature of the crime, the manner in which the crime was committed and the conduct of the accused to strike a balance between the efficacy of law and the chances of reformation of the accused.

11. A perusal of the judgment of conviction passed by the learned trial Court indicates no perversity in its findings and the same is based on correct appreciation of evidence available on record. Moreover, learned counsel for petitioners has not assailed the judgment of conviction on merits, rather, he has restricted his prayer only qua quantum of sentence.

12. The FIR in the present case was lodged on 21.11.2010 and petitioners have been suffering the agony of protracted trial for more than last 14 years. Since their conviction, petitioners have grown into a law-abiding citizen and desire to live a peaceful life. As per the order dated 27.05.2014 passed by this Court, they have already undergone incarceration for a period of 2 and a half months.

13. Accordingly, this Court is of the opinion that it would be in the interest of justice, if the sentence awarded to petitioners is reduced to the period already undergone by them.

14. Consequently, the present revision petition is disposed of and the judgment dated 15.04.2014 passed by the learned Judge, Special Court, Fazilka, affirming the judgment of conviction is upheld, however, the order of sentence dated 06.01.2014 passed by the Id. Principal Magistrate, Juvenile Justice Board, Fazilka, is modified to the extent that the sentence of 03 months awarded to the petitioners is reduced to the period of sentence already undergone by them.

(HARPREET SINGH BRAR)
JUDGE

07.05.2025

Neha

Whether speaking/reasoned	:	Yes/No
Whether reportable	:	Yes/No