SUMEET GOEL, J.

1. The present petition has been filed impugning the judgment dated 08.08.2024 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Kaithal & the judgment dated 03.10.2017 as also the order dated 04.10.2017 passed by learned Sub Judicial Magistrate, Guhla, District Kaithal, Haryana whereby the petitioner has been convicted and sentenced for offence under Section 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881.

2. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that, during the pendency of the proceedings in the present revision petition, the parties were referred to Mediation and Conciliation Centre of this Court wherein they have entered into a settlement which has been reduced into writing vide settlement deed dated 26.09.2024, relevant whereof reads as under:-

“That during the mediation, today first party has paid Rs.20,000/- to the second party and it is agreed between both the parties that first party shall pay an amount of Rs. 2,20,000/-(Rupees two lakhs and twenty thousand) to the second party within the period of two months i.e. till 30.11.2024 and the second party has no objection if the present Revision Petition is allowed in view of the present compromise. In default of payment Rs.2,20,000/-(Rupees two lakh twenty thousand), the second party is free to file an application for revival of the criminal revision.”

3. Learned counsel appearing for the respondent-complainant has ratified the factum of compromise/settlement deed dated 26.09.2024 entered into between the parties before the Mediation and Conciliation Centre of this Court. Accordingly, he has iterated that respondent-complainant has no objection in case the offence permitted to be compounded and the petitioner is ordered to be acquitted.

4. Learned State counsel has submitted that he has no objection in case the offence is permitted to be compounded by this Court and the petitioner is ordered to be acquitted.

5. I have heard learned counsel for the rival parties and have perused the available record.

6. It would be apposite to refer herein to a judgment passed by three Judge Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court titled as Damodar S. Prabhu vs. Sayed Babalal H., AIR 2010(SC) 1907, relevant whereof reads thus:

“15. With regard to the progression of litigation in cheque bouncing cases, the learned Attorney General has urged this Court to frame guidelines for a graded scheme of imposing costs on parties who unduly delay compounding of the offence. It was submitted that the requirement of deposit of the costs will act as a deterrent for delayed composition, since at present, free and easy compounding of offences at any stage, however belated, gives an incentive to the drawer of the cheque to delay settling the cases for years. An application for compounding made after several years not only results in the system being burdened but the complainant is also deprived of effective justice. In view of this submission, we direct that the following guidelines be followed:-

THE GUIDELINES

- (i) In the circumstances, it is proposed as follows:
  - (a) That directions can be given that the Writ of Summons be suitably modified making it clear to the accused that he could make an application for compounding of the offences at the first or second hearing of the case and that if such an application is made, compounding may be allowed by the court without imposing any costs on the accused.
  - (b) If the accused does not make an application for compounding as aforesaid, then if an application for compounding is made before the Magistrate at a subsequent stage, compounding can be allowed subject to the condition that the accused will be required to pay 10% of the cheque amount to be deposited as a condition for compounding with the Legal Services Authority, or such authority as the Court deems fit.
  - (c) Similarly, if the application for compounding is made before the Sessions Court or a High Court in revision or appeal, such compounding may be allowed on the condition that the accused pays 15% of the cheque amount by way of costs.
  - (d) Finally, if the application for compounding is made before the Supreme Court, the figure would increase to 20% of the cheque amount.

Let it also be clarified that any costs imposed in accordance with these guidelines should be deposited with the Legal Services Authority operating at the level of the Court before which compounding takes place. For instance, in case of compounding during the pendency of proceedings before a Magistrate's Court or a Court of Sessions, such costs should be deposited with the District Legal Services Authority. Likewise, costs imposed in connection with composition before the High Court should be deposited with the State Legal Services Authority and those imposed in connection with composition before the Supreme Court should be deposited with the National Legal Services Authority.

17. We are also conscious of the view that the judicial endorsement of the above quoted guidelines could be seen as an act of judicial law-making and therefore an intrusion into the legislative domain. It must be kept in mind that Section 147 of the Act does not carry any guidance on how to proceed with the compounding of offences under the Act. We have already explained that the scheme contemplated under Section 320 of the CrPC cannot be followed in the strict sense. In view of the legislative vacuum, we see no hurdle to the endorsement of some suggestions which have been designed to discourage litigants from unduly delaying the composition of the offence in cases involving Section 138 of the Act. The graded scheme for imposing costs is a means to encourage compounding at an early stage of litigation. In the status quo, valuable time of the Court is spent on the trial of these cases and the parties are not liable to pay any Court fee since the proceedings are governed by the Code of Criminal Procedure, even though the impact of the offence is largely confined to the private parties. Even though the imposition of costs by the competent court is a matter of discretion, the scale of costs has been suggested in the interest of uniformity. The competent Court can of course reduce the costs with regard to the specific facts and circumstances of a case, while recording reasons in writing for such variance. Bona fide litigants should of course contest the proceedings to their logical end. Even in the past, this Court has used its power to do complete justice under Article 142 of the Constitution to frame guidelines in relation to subject-matter where there was a legislative vacuum.”

6.1. Further the Hon’ble Supreme Court in a judgment titled as M/s New Win Export & Anr. vs. A. Subramaniam 2024 INSC 535 : 2024(3) Law Herald (SC) 2098, relevant whereof reads as under:

“6. At this juncture, we would also like to reiterate a few words regarding the principles of compounding of offences in the context of NI Act. It is to be remembered that dishonour of cheques is a regulatory offence which was made an offence only in view of public interest so that the reliability of these instruments can be ensured. A large number of cases involving dishonour of cheques are pending before courts which is a serious concern for our judicial system. Keeping in mind that the ‘compensatory aspect’ of remedy shall have priority over the ‘punitive aspect’, courts should encourage compounding of offences under the NI Act if parties are willing to do so. (See: Damodar S. Prabhu v. Sayed Babalal H. (2010) 5 SCC 663 (Para 18), Gimpex Private Limited v. Manoj Goel (2022) 11 SCC 705 (Para 29), Meters And Instruments Private Limited And Anr. v. Kanchan Mehta (2018) 1 SCC 560 (Para 18.2))”

6.2. The statutory provision of Section 359 of BNSS, 2023 and Section 147 of Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 when examined alongwith Section 528 of BNSS, 2023 in the guiding light of the judgments of the Hon’ble Supreme Court in cases of Damodar S. Prabhu case (supra) and M/s New Win Export case (supra), lead to the unequivocal conclusion that the offence under Section 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 can be compounded at all levels of the stage of litigation including when the matter has reached the High Court after being conclusively dealt with by the Magisterial as also the Sessions Court. In other words, such an offence can be compromised/compounded even after the petitioner-accused has been convicted by the Court of learned Magistrate and his appeal against the same has been dismissed by the learned Sessions Court.

The Hon’ble Supreme Court in the judgment of Damodar S. Prabhu case (supra) has also enunciated that, ordinarily, costs ought to be imposed when the offence under Section 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act of 1881 is compounded at a stage when substantial proceedings have been undertaken by Courts so as to dissuade the unscrupulous litigant from unduly delaying the compounding of such offences. However, discretion has been reserved in favour of the concerned Court to reduce/waive off such costs, in case facts/circumstances of a given case so warrant.

6.3. Still further, the inherent jurisdiction of the High Court under Section 528 BNSS, 2023 is primarily aimed at preventing abuse of judicial process and securing the ends of justice. Thus, when the dispute is essentially personal in nature and a genuine compromise has been reached, the High Court may intervene to quash the conviction recognizing the continued proceedings would be non-productive and unjust in the given circumstances. The inherent powers of a High Court are powers which are incidental replete powers, which if did not so exist, the Court would be obliged to sit still and helplessly see the process of law and Courts being abused for the purposes of injustice. In other words; such power(s) is intrinsic to a High Court, it is its very life-blood, its very essence, its immanent attribute. Without such power(s), a High Court would have form but lack the substance. These powers of a High Court hence deserve to be construed with the widest possible amplitude. These inherent powers are in consonance with the nature of a High Court which ought to be, and has in fact been, invested with power(s) to maintain its authority to prevent the process of law/Courts being obstructed or abused. It is a trite posit of jurisprudence that though laws attempt to deal with all cases that may arise, the infinite variety of circumstances which shape events and the imperfections of language make it impossible to lay down provisions capable of governing every case, which in fact arises. A High Court which exists for the furtherance of justice in an indefatigable manner, should therefore, have unfettered power(s) to deal with situations which, though not expressly provided for by the law, need to be dealt with, to prevent injustice or the abuse of the process of law and Courts. The juridical basis of these plenary

Court; to uphold, to protect and to fulfill the judicial function of administering justice, in accordance with law, in a regular, orderly and effective manner. In other words; Section 528 of BNSS, 2023 reflects peerless powers, which a High Court may draw upon as necessary whenever it is just and equitable to do so, in particular to ensure the observance of the due process of law, to prevent vexation or oppression, to do justice nay substantial justice between the parties and to secure the ends of justice. Therefore, the High Court, in the exercise of its inherent power under section 528 BNSS, 2023 has the discretion to quash a conviction where the parties have reached an amicable settlement, provided such compromise does not impinge upon the public interest or undermine justice, as well as the substantial justice.

7. Reverting to the facts of the case in hand, it is not disputed by the concerned rival parties that an amicable settlement has been arrived at between them and, therefore, compounding of the offence and necessary consequential directions have been sought from this Court. A perusal of the settlement deed dated 26.09.2024 entered into between the parties before the Mediation and Conciliation Centre of this Court indubitably reflects that the parties have sought to resolve their dispute(s) and bury the hatchet. Consequently, in the considered opinion of this Court, the factual matrix of the case requires that the offence(s) ought to be permitted to be compounded and the petitioner deserves to be acquitted.

8. At this juncture it is noticeable that a perusal of the order dated 20.11.2024 earlier passed in the matter in hand reflects that the petitioner has deposited an amount of Rs. 1,20,000/- (15 % of the cheque amount) with the Haryana State Legal Services Authority.

In view of the above, it is directed as under:-

- (i) The impugned judgment and order dated 03/04.10.2017 passed by the learned Sub Divisional Judicial Magistrate, Guhla as well as judgment dated 08.08.2024 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge, Kaithal (in appeal) are hereby set aside and the petitioner is ordered to be acquitted of the charge under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881.
- (ii) Pending application(s), if any, shall also stand disposed of.
