THE HIGH COURT OF PUNJAB AND HARYANA AT CHANDIGARH

CRM-M No.39465 of 2025 (O&M)
Date of Decision: 24.07.2025

Sunny..... Petitioner*Versus*State of Haryana*..... Respondent*CORAM : HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJESH BHARDWAJ

Present: Mr. Anmol Sharma, Advocate for the petitioner.

RAJESH BHARDWAJ, J.

1. Present petition has been filed praying for the grant of anticipatory bail to the petitioner in case bearing FIR No.201, dated 07.07.2025, under Sections 110, 115(2), 333, 190, 191(3), 61(2), 351(3) of BNS, registered at Police Station Quilla, District Panipat.

2. Succinctly the facts of the case are that FIR in the present case was got registered on the statement of complainant, namely, Raj Kumar. It was alleged that the complainant was the head of Nasha Mukti Samaj Sudhar Samiti (regd.) and run a campaign against the people involved in the drugs. On 06.07.2025 at around 5:00 p.m, Ashu @ Ashwani, Ram, Lakhan, Sagar, Sunny Pandit, i.e. the petitioner and Ashu Kashyap @ Ashwani entered his Dera carrying sticks and axes in their hands. They caught him and thereafter opened attack on him. All the assailants were involved in drug trade. On beating him, they threatened him to be killed. He was admitted in the Civil hospital. Thus the request was made to take legal action against the accused. On registration of the FIR, the investigation commenced. Apprehending arrest, the petitioner approached the Court of learned Additional Sessions Judge, Panipat praying for the grant of anticipatory bail. However after hearing both the sides, finding no merit in the same, the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Panipat dismissed the petition filed by the petitioner vide order dated 18.07.2025. Hence being aggrieved, the petitioner is before this Court by way of filing the present petition praying for the grant of anticipatory bail.

3. It has been contended by learned counsel for the petitioner that the petitioner has been falsely implicated in the present case. He has submitted that the FIR has been lodged on the basis of a concocted story and the petitioner had no motive to commit the offence as alleged. He has submitted that the petitioner was not attributed any specific injury to the complainant. He has submitted that no prima facie case as alleged is made out against the petitioner and thus, he deserves to be granted anticipatory bail.

4. Notice of motion.

5. On asking of the Court, Mr. Tanuj Sharma, AAG, Haryana appears and accepts notice on behalf of the respondent-State. At this stage, Ms. Parul Saini, Advocate has appeared and filed her vakalatnama on behalf of the complainant today in the Court and the same is taken on record.

6. Per contra, learned State counsel has opposed the submissions made by learned counsel for the petitioner. He has submitted that the petitioner had played an active role. He has submitted that the petitioner is specifically named in the FIR. He has submitted that the investigation is at the initial stage and thus, no case is made out for the grant of anticipatory bail to the petitioner and the present petition deserves to be dismissed.

7. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record with their able assistance.

8. It is deciphered that the petitioner was specifically named in the FIR, who was duly armed. The petitioner along with the co-accused has opened attack on the complainant as the assailants are allegedly involved in the drug menace. The complainant is running a campaign against the drugs. The investigation is at threshold. The allegations made against the petitioner are of serious nature.

9. For the consideration of anticipatory bail, the statutory parameters are given under Section 482 (1) & (2) BNSS which reads as under:-

“Direction for grant of bail to person apprehending arrest:

1. When any person has reason to believe that he may be arrested on an accusation of having committed a non-bailable offence, he may apply to the High Court or the Court of Session for a direction under this section; and that Court may, if it thinks fit, direct that in the event of such arrest, he shall be released on bail.

2. When the High Court or the Court of Session makes a direction under sub-section (1), it may include such conditions in such directions in the light of the facts of the particular case, as it may think fit, including-
- (i) a condition that the person shall make himself available for interrogation by a police officer as and when required;*
 - (ii) a condition that the person shall not, directly or indirectly, make any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him from disclosing such facts to the Court or to any police officer;*
 - (iii) a condition that the person shall not leave India without the previous permission of the Court;*
 - (iv) such other condition as may be imposed under sub-section (3) of section 480, as if the bail were granted under that section."*

10. As per the law settled by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, in Gurbaksh Singh Sibbia Vs. State of Punjab, AIR 1980 SC 1632, while granting anticipatory bail, the Court is to maintain a balance between the individual liberty and the interest of society. However, the interest of the society would always prevail upon the right of personal liberty. The relevant part of the judgment is as follows:-

"31. In regard to anticipatory bail, if the proposed accusation appears to stem not from motives of furthering the ends of justice but from some ulterior motive, the object being to injure and humiliate the applicant by having him arrested, a direction for the release of the applicant on bail in the event of his arrest would generally be made. On the other hand, if it appears likely, considering the antecedents of the applicant, that taking advantage of the order of anticipatory bail he will flee from justice, such an order would not be made. But the converse of these propositions is not necessarily true. That is to say, it cannot be laid down as an inexorable rule that anticipatory bail cannot be granted unless the proposed accusation appears to be actuated by mala fides; and, equally, that anticipatory bail must be granted if there is no fear that the applicant will abscond. There are several other considerations, too numerous to enumerate, the combined effect of which must weigh with the court while granting or rejecting anticipatory bail. The nature and seriousness of the proposed charges, the context of the events likely to lead to the making of the charges, a reasonable possibility of the applicant's presence not being secured at the trial, a reasonable apprehension that witnesses will be tampered with and "the larger interests of the public or the state" are some of the considerations which the court has to keep in mind while deciding an application for anticipatory bail. The relevance of these considerations was pointed out in State v. Captain Jagjit Singh (1962) 3 SCR 622, which, though, was a case under the old Section 498 which corresponds to the present Section 439 of the Code. It is of paramount consideration to remember that the freedom of the individual is as necessary for the survival of the society as it is for the egoistic purposes of the individual. A person seeking anticipatory bail is still a free man entitled to the presumption of innocence. He is willing to submit to restraints on his freedom, by the acceptance of conditions which the court may think fit to impose, in consideration of the assurance that if arrested, he shall be enlarged on bail."

11. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in State Vs. Anil Sharma, (1997) 7SCC 187, held as under:-

“6. We find force in the submission of the CBI that custodial interrogation is qualitatively more elicitation oriented than questioning a suspect who is well ensconced with a favorable order under Section 438 of the Code. In a case like this effective interrogation of a suspected person is of tremendous advantage in disinterring many useful informations and also materials which would have been concealed. Success in such interrogation would elude if the suspected person knows that he is well protected and insulated by a pre-arrest bail order during the time he is interrogated. Very often interrogation in such a condition would reduce to a mere ritual. The argument that the custodial interrogation is fraught with the danger of the person being subjected to third-degree methods need not be countenanced, for, such an argument can be advanced by all accused in all criminal cases. The Court has to presume that responsible police officers would conduct themselves in a responsible manner and that those entrusted with the task of disinterring offences would not conduct themselves as offenders.”

12. Weighing the facts of the case on the anvil of the law settled, it is apparent that the complicity of the petitioner has been prima facie found. Needless to say, the investigation is at the initial stage and in the facts and circumstances, custodial interrogation of the petitioner would be essential and granting anticipatory bail to the petitioner at this stage would scuttle the ongoing investigation.

13. In view of the overall facts and circumstances of the case, the petitioner does not qualify for the grant of anticipatory bail and the same is hereby dismissed. Nothing said herein shall be treated as an expression of opinion on the merits of the case.
