

2025:DHC:9929-DB

$~42

* IN THE HIGH COURT OF DELHI AT NEW DELHI+ W.P.(C) 17111/2025*UNION OF INDIA AND ORS

.....Petitioners

Through: Mr. Ashish K Dixit, CGSC with
Mr. Umar Hashmi, Mr. Harshit and Ms. Iqra Shiekh, Advs.

versus

SGT ABHISHEK KUMAR (RETD.)

.....Respondent

Through:

CORAM:HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE C. HARI SHANKAR*HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE OM PRAKASH SHUKLA*JUDGMENT (ORAL)

%

12.11.2025C. HARI SHANKAR, J.

1. This petition assails order dated 7 November 2023 passed by the Armed Forces Tribunal¹ in OA 1163/2020 whereby the respondent's application for grant of disability pension on the ground that he suffers from Chronic Angle Closure Glaucoma (BE) with 30%, lifelong, broad banded to 50% has been allowed by the AFT.

2. The issue is covered by a recent decision rendered by one of us (C. Hari Shankar J.) in UOI v Ex Sub Gawas Anil Madso².

3. Nonetheless, we have heard Mr. Ashish K Dixit, learned CGSC for the petitioners, and have perused the record.

¹ "the AFT", hereinafter

² 318 (2025) DLT 711

2025:DHC:9929-DB

4. The respondent was released in Low Medical Category on his being found to be suffering from Chronic Angle Closure Glaucoma (BE). From the record, including the proceedings of the Release Medical Board³, the following facts emerged:

(i) The respondent had served in the Indian Air Force for over 22 years before he was diagnosed as suffering from Chronic Angle Closure Glaucoma (BE).

(ii) The respondent, in his self-declaration, specifically declared that he had not been suffering from Chronic Angle Closure Glaucoma (BE) prior to joining the Air Force. The declaration reads thus:

3. Did you suffer from any disability before joining the Armed Forces ? If so, give details and dates - NO
--

The correctness of this declaration is not doubted either by the RMB or by the petitioner before the AFT or before this Court.

(iii) The reason regarding the Chronic Angle Closure Glaucoma (BE) suffered by the respondent has not been attributable to military service, as entered by the RMB reads thus:

“Chronic Angle Closure Glaucoma (BE) H40.22: NANA. The disability is insidious in nature. There is no casual relationship between the disability and military service. The stress and strain of military service is not associated with the disability. Onset of the disability is in peace area and there is no evidence of undue mental or physical stress occasioned by war service. Individual was immediately brought to medical attention on onset of symptoms. There is no evidence of worsening of disability due to military service hence not the disability is neither attributable to nor aggravated by service as per Para 35(a) of Chapter VI of GMO 2008 (Amended)”

2025:DHC:9929-DB

(iv) We have already held, in our judgment in Gawas Anil Madso, that where the applicant was not suffering from the ailment at the time of entry into service, the RMB is required to positively identify the cause for the ailment, to justify a finding that it is not attributable to military service. The Commanding Officer’s certificate specifically states that the respondent was not responsible, owing to any act or omission of his, for the ailment from which he was suffering. The entry in that regard reads as under:

5. (a) Was the disability attributable to the individual’s own negligence or misconduct? If Yes, in what way.
NO, N/A

(v) Regarding para 35 of the Chapter VI of the GMO 2008, we have, in our judgment in Union of India v Parmendra Kumar Singh⁴, observed thus:

“8. We have also seen para 35 of Chapter VI of GMO (Mil. Pen) 2008 to which the opinion of the RMB refers, which reads thus:

35. Glaucoma.

(a) Primary and Idiopathic: which may be either acute or chronic. Its onset is generally speaking unaffected by service conditions; but exceptionally, an acute attack may be brought on by worry, fatigue, or illness and, if any of these were considered to be the result of service, aggravation might have to be conceded.

2025:DHC:9929-DB

The onset may be insidious and it may reveal its presence for the first time as an acutely painful eye, but in the absence of evidence of undue mental or physical stress occasioned by war service, it can not be considered that this disease is attributable to or has been aggravated by service factors.

(b) Secondary Glaucoma: This may be due to a service trauma and would be attributable. It may be caused by iritis and intra-ocular haemorrhage, and entitlement would, therefore, have to be considered in relation to the underlying cause. It may also be the result of an intra-ocular tumour.

In general terms it may be said that, in the great majority of cases there is a disturbance of the intra-ocular circulation to which is frequently added an obstruction to the circulation of the intra-ocular fluids. The factor common to all cases is the increase of intra-ocular pressure. In such cases, therefore, the primary condition which is responsible, for these changes or sequelae must be considered in relation to entitlement and not the glaucoma per se."

(vi) The RMB has certified the respondent as suffering from 30% disability on account of Chronic Angle Closure Glaucoma (BE), for life.

(vii) We have also seen the opinion of the medical specialist, which has been annexed in the writ petition. That opinion, too, does not state at any point that the Chronic Angle Closure Glaucoma (BE) from which the respondent was suffering was not attributable to military service.

5. Thus, we find that even the specialist who examined the respondent did not arrive at any conclusion that the Chronic Angle Closure Glaucoma (BE) from which the respondent suffered was not attributable to military service.

6. In such circumstances, we have held in the decision in Ex Sub Gawas Anil Madso that the respondent would be entitled to disability pension.

7. We do not deem it necessary to reproduce our findings in the said decision, so as not to burden this judgment.

8. We have also been conscious of the fact that we are exercising certiorari jurisdiction over the decision of the AFT and are not sitting in appeal over the said decision.

9. The parameters of certiorari jurisdiction are delineated in the following passages of Syed Yakooob v K.S. Radhakrishnan⁵:

“7. The question about the limits of the jurisdiction of High Courts in issuing a writ of certiorari under Article 226 has been frequently considered by this Court and the true legal position in that behalf is no longer in doubt. A writ of certiorari can be issued for correcting errors of jurisdiction committed by inferior courts or tribunals: these are cases where orders are passed by inferior courts or tribunals without jurisdiction, or is in excess of it, or as a result of failure to exercise jurisdiction. A writ can similarly be issued where in exercise of jurisdiction conferred on it, the Court or Tribunal acts illegally or properly, as for instance, it decides a question without giving an opportunity, be heard to the party affected by the order, or where the procedure adopted in dealing with the dispute is opposed to principles of natural justice. There is, however, no doubt that the jurisdiction to issue a writ of certiorari is a supervisory jurisdiction and the Court exercising it is not entitled to act as an appellate Court. This limitation necessarily means that findings of fact reached by the inferior Court or Tribunal as result of the appreciation of evidence cannot be reopened or questioned in writ proceedings. An error of law which is apparent on the face of the record can be corrected by a writ, but not an error of fact, however grave it may appear to be. In regard to a finding of fact recorded by the Tribunal, a writ of certiorari can be issued if it is shown that in recording the said finding, the Tribunal had erroneously refused to admit admissible and material evidence, or had erroneously admitted inadmissible evidence which has influenced the impugned finding. Similarly, if a finding of fact is based on no evidence, that would be regarded as an error of law which can be corrected by a writ of certiorari. In dealing with this category of cases, however, we must always bear in mind that a finding of fact recorded by the Tribunal cannot be challenged in proceedings for a writ of certiorari on the ground that the relevant and material evidence adduced before the Tribunal was insufficient or inadequate to sustain the impugned finding. The adequacy or sufficiency of evidence led on a point and the inference of fact to be drawn from the said finding are within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Tribunal, and the said points cannot be agitated before a writ Court. It is within these limits that the jurisdiction conferred on the High Courts under Article 226 to issue a writ of certiorari can be legitimately exercised (vide Hari Vishnu Kamath v Syed Ahmad Ishaque⁶, Nagandra Nath Bora v Commissioner of Hills Division and Appeals Assam⁷ and Kaushalya Devi v Bachittar Singh⁸).

2025:DHC:9929-DB

8. It is, of course, not easy to define or adequately describe what an error of law apparent on the face of the record means. What can be corrected by a writ has to be an error of law; but it must be such an error of law as can be regarded as one which is apparent on the face of the record. Where it is manifest or clear that the conclusion of law recorded by an inferior Court or Tribunal is based on an obvious mis-interpretation of the relevant statutory provision, or sometimes in ignorance of it, or may be, even in disregard of it, or is expressly founded on reasons which are wrong in law, the said conclusion can be corrected by a writ of certiorari. In all these cases, the impugned conclusion should be so plainly inconsistent with the relevant statutory provision that no difficulty is experienced by the High Court in holding that the said error of law is apparent on the face of the record. It may also be that in some cases, the impugned error of law may not be obvious or patent on the face of the record as such and the Court may need an argument to discover the said error; but there can be no doubt that what can be corrected by a writ of certiorari is an error of law and the said error must, on the whole, be of such a character as would satisfy the test that it is an error of law apparent on the face of the record. If a statutory provision is reasonably capable of two constructions and one construction has been adopted by the inferior Court or Tribunal, its conclusion may not necessarily or always be open to correction by a writ of certiorari. In our opinion, it is neither possible nor desirable to attempt either to define or to describe adequately all cases of errors which can be appropriately described as errors of law apparent on the face of the record. Whether or not an impugned error is an error of law and an error of law which is apparent on the face of the record, must always depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case and upon the nature and scope of the legal provision which is alleged to have been misconstrued or contravened.”

⁶ (1954) 2 SCC 881

⁷ AIR 1958 SC 398

⁸ AIR 1960 SC 1168

(Emphasis supplied)

10. Within the limited parameters of the certiorari jurisdiction and keeping in view the facts of the case outlined hereinabove, we find no cause to interfere with the impugned judgment of the AFT, which is affirmed in its entirety.

11. In addition, we find that our view stands fortified by paras 45.1, 46 and 47 of the judgment of the Supreme Court, rendered on 23 April 2025 in Bijender Singh v UOI⁹, which may be reproduced thus:

“45.1. Thus, this Court held that essence of the Rules is that a member of the armed forces is presumed to be in sound physical and mental condition at the time of his entry into the service if there is no note or record to the contrary made at the time of such entry. In the event of subsequent discharge from service on medical ground, any deterioration in health would be presumed to be due to military service. The burden would be on the employer to rebut the presumption that the disability suffered by the member was neither attributable to nor aggravated by military service. If the Medical Board is of the opinion that the disease suffered by the member could not have been detected at the time of entry into service, the Medical Board has to give reasons for saying so. This Court highlighted that the provision for payment of disability pension is a beneficial one which ought to be interpreted liberally. A soldier cannot be asked to prove that the disease was contracted by him on account of military service or was aggravated by the same. The very fact that upon proper physical and other tests, the member was found fit to serve in the army would give rise to a presumption that he was disease free at the time of his entry into service. For the employer to say that such a disease was neither attributable to nor aggravated by military service, the least that is required to be done is to furnish reasons for taking such a view.

2025:DHC:9929-DB

46. Referring back to the impugned order dated 26.02.2016, we find that the Tribunal simply went by the remarks of the Invaliding Medical Board and Re-Survey Medical Boards to hold that since the disability of the appellant was less than 20%, he would not be entitled to the disability element of the disability pension. Tribunal did not examine the issue as to whether the disability was attributable to or aggravated by military service. In the instant case neither has it been mentioned by the Invaliding Medical Board nor by the Re-Survey Medical Boards that the disease for which the appellant was invalided out of service could not be detected at the time of entry into military service. As a matter of fact, the Invaliding Medical Board was quite categorical that no disability of the appellant existed before entering service. As would be evident from the aforesaid decisions of this Court, the law has by now crystalized that if there is no note or report of the Medical Board at the time of entry into service that the member suffered from any particular disease, the presumption would be that the member got afflicted by the said disease because of military service. Therefore the burden of proving that the disease is not attributable to or aggravated by military service rest entirely on the employer. Further, any disease or disability for which a member of the armed forces is invalided out of service would have to be assumed to be above 20% and attract grant of 50% disability pension.

47. Thus having regard to the discussions made above, we are of the considered view that the impugned orders of the Tribunal are wholly unsustainable in law. That being the position, impugned orders dated 22.01.2018 and 26.02.2016 are hereby set aside. Consequently, respondents are directed to grant the disability element of disability pension to the appellant at the rate of 50% with effect from 01.01.1996 onwards for life. The arrears shall carry interest at the rate of 6% per annum till payment. The above directions shall be carried out by the respondents within three months from today.”

2025:DHC:9929-DB

12. The present petition is, accordingly, dismissed in limine.
13. Compliance with the impugned judgement of the AFT, if not already ensured, be ensured within a period of 12 weeks from today.

C. HARI SHANKAR, J.

OM PRAKASH SHUKLA, J.

NOVEMBER 12, 2025/dsn