of the family. The applicant has no criminal antecedents. The necessary recovery is already effected by the investigating agency. As such, further detention of the applicant is not required. Hence prayed to allow the application.

3. Per contra, the learned APP submits that the applicant has given blows with the weapon on vital part of the body, which disentitle him relief of grant of bail.

4. Having heard the submissions from both the sides and perusal of the record including investigation papers indicates that the alleged incident appears to have taken place in the spur of moment. And given the nature of injuries to be simple. As such, prima facie, there is absence of intent for the offence punishable under Section 109 of the BNS and nature of injuries. Therefore, I am inclined to exercise discretion in favour of the applicant. However, by imposing stringent conditions. Accordingly, following order :-
