Shubhada S Kadam

3. It is prosecution's case that the applicants have cheated the first informant of ₹6.5 crores in respect of company transactions.

4. It is contention of the learned senior counsel for the applicants that after investigation, the cheated amount is mentioned as ₹1.40 crores. The applicants have not cheated the first informant. There is a dispute regarding IPR, which was sold to another firm. The applicants are behind bars for almost eight months. The applicants have no antecedents. Learned senior counsel further submitted that the applicants have deposited ₹50 lakhs before this Court to show their bona fides and requested to allow the applications.

5. It is contention of learned APP along with the learned counsel for the informant that the applicants have cheated the first informant. The applicants had assured that they would purchase the articles from the first informant's company, which they did not do, and instead entered into a joint venture with another company for the same product. If the applicants are released on bail, they may threaten the prosecution witnesses and requested to reject the applications.

6. I have heard all learned counsel, perused the charge-sheet and documents produced on record. Initially, the cheating amount was mentioned as more than ₹6 crores, but in the charge-sheet, it is mentioned as ₹1.40 crores. The dispute is regarding not keeping the promise given to the first informant's company and entering into a contract with another company.
