2. Insofar as the first prayer for stay of the order dated 6 February 2018 is concerned, this Court on 10 February 2026 had already passed an order giving reasons for refusing stay of the impugned order. Therefore, the present prayer may will amount to re-visiting the order of refusal already passed, which this Court in the present interim application cannot revisit. Therefore, the said prayer is rejected.

3. Insofar as the second prayer for deposit of arrears is concerned, this Court on 10 February 2026 rejected the stay application on the ground that earlier amount directed were not deposited inspite of letters sent by the Court Receiver. Therefore, any consideration of the new prayer of the applicants permitting them to deposit the arrears will amount to modification of order dated 10 February 2026, which cannot be done in the interim application. It is also important to note that this submission was not even made when the order dated 10 February 2026 was passed.

4. If, at all the applicants are aggrieved by the order dated 10 February 2026, then the remedy lies somewhere else and not in filing the present application.
