3. The learned counsel appearing for the petitioner submits that the injuries sustained by the de facto complainant is simple in nature and he has been discharged from the hospital and there is also a counter case against the de facto complainant. He further submits that the petitioner is ready and willing to abide by any conditions that may be imposed by this Court. Hence, he prays for grant of anticipatory bail to the petitioner.

4. The learned Government Advocate (Crl.Side) appearing for the respondent police fairly submits that the de facto complainant has been discharged from the hospital.

5. I have given my anxious consideration to the submissions made by the learned counsel on either side and also perused the records available.

6. The entire issue revolves around the physical assault committed by the petitioner on the de facto complainant. From the submissions made by the learned Government Advocate (Crl.Side), it is seen that the injured has been discharged from the hospital and also taking into consideration the date of registration of the First Information Report, at this length of time, the custodial interrogation of the petitioner is not required. Hence, this Court is inclined to enlarge the petitioner on anticipatory bail, subject to certain conditions.
