5. Heard.

6. It has been contended by learned counsel for the petitioner that petitioner although named in the FIR was not found guilty by the Investigating Agency, and that he was exonerated. According to learned counsel for the petitioner, initially vide final report under Section 173 CrPC, the petitioner was not prosecuted, but during the course of trial, the learned trial Court invoked the provisions contained in Section 319 CrPC and summoned the petitioner, as an additional accused. It has been further contended by learned counsel for the petitioner that nothing has been left to be recovered from the possession of petitioner and therefore, his custodial interrogation is not required.

7. The learned State Counsel has controverted the abovementioned arguments. According to learned State Counsel, the injury attributed to the petitioner is serious in nature, and that in view of gravity of offence, the petitioner is not entitled for the benefit of pre-arrest bail.

8. The record has been perused carefully.

9. A perusal of record shows that in the present case, following are the relevant factors which are required to be taken into consideration for a decision:-

- i. that vide report under Section 173 of CrPC, the petitioner was not prosecuted, as according to the Investigating Agency, he was innocent;
- ii. that since the petitioner has been summoned under Section 319 of CrPC, and therefore, further investigation qua petitioner is not going to take place;
- iii. that the trial is not likely to be concluded in near future;
- iv. that nothing has been left to be recovered from the possession of petitioner;
- v. that the detention of petitioner in judicial lock-up is not likely to serve any purpose;
- vi. that custodial interrogation of the petitioner is not likely to produce a fruitful result;
- vii. that there is nothing on record to show that while on anticipatory bail, the petitioner is likely to tamper with the evidence or influence the witnesses; and
- viii. that there is nothing on record to show that while on anticipatory bail, the petitioner will not participate/cooperate in the investigation.

10. If the cumulative effect of all the abovementioned factors, involved in the instant case, is taken into consideration, it leads to a conclusion that the petitioner is entitled for the benefit of pre-arrest bail, and that the present petition deserves to be allowed.

11. In view of the above-mentioned discussion, the present petition is hereby allowed and the petitioner is accorded the benefit of pre-arrest bail. It is hereby directed that in the event of his arrest, the petitioner shall be released on bail on furnishing bonds to the satisfaction of arresting officer.
