CORAM:- HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE JASJIT SINGH BEDI

Present:- Mr. Tarun Singla, Advocate for the applicant-appellant (through VC).

JASJIT SINGH BEDI, J.(ORAL)CRM-27137-2025

This is an application under Section 05 of the Limitation Act for condonation of delay of 160 days in filing the appeal.

For the reasons mentioned in the application, the same is allowed and the delay of 160 days in filing the appeal is hereby condoned.

CRM-A-1274-2025

The present application has been preferred under Section 378(4) of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (hereinafter 'Cr.P.C.') seeking grant of leave to appeal against the judgment of acquittal dated 28.11.2024 passed by the learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Phillaur in a case stemming from complaint dated 27.11.2016 filed under Sections 323, 324, 380, 427, 452, 506, 34 IPC r/w Sections 3 and 3 of Scheduled Caste and Scheduled Tribe (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989.

CRM-A-1274-2025 (O&M)

2. The complaint (supra) was filed for the offences under Sections 323, 324, 380, 427, 452, 506, 34 IPC r/w Sections 3 and 3 of Scheduled Caste and Scheduled Tribe (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 on the ground of passing castiest remarks and beating. After the complainant absented himself from the proceedings, the learned trial Court dismissed the complaint in default vide order dated 28.11.2024 which amounts to acquittal of the accused.

3. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in M/s. Celestium Financial vs. A.Gnanasekaran Etc., 2025(3) RCR (Criminal) 208, after considerable discussion and comparative interpretation of Sections 372 and 378(4) of Cr.P.C., concluded that the victim has a right to file an appeal under Section 372 of Cr.P.C. before the Court of Sessions. Speaking through Justice B.V. Nagarathna, the following was held:

“7.12 The reasons for the above distinction are not far to see and can be elaborated as follows:

Firstly, the victim of a crime must have an absolute right to prefer an appeal which cannot be circumscribed by any condition precedent. In the instant case, a victim under Section 138 of the Act, i.e., a payee or the holder of a cheque is a person who has suffered the impact of the offence committed by a person who is charged of the offence, namely, the accused, whose cheque has been dishonoured.

Secondly, the right of a victim of a crime must be placed on par with the right of an accused who has suffered a conviction, who, as a matter of right can prefer an appeal under Section 374 of the CrPC. A person convicted of a crime has the right to prefer an appeal under Section 374 as a matter of right and not being subjected to any conditions.

Similarly, a victim of a crime, whatever be the nature of the crime, unconditionally must have a right to prefer an appeal.

Thirdly, it is for this reason that the Parliament thought it fit to insert the proviso to sub-section 372 without mandating any condition precedent to be fulfilled by the victim of an offence, which expression also includes the legal representatives of a deceased victim who can prefer an appeal.

On the contrary, as against an order of acquittal, the State, through the Public Prosecutor can prefer an appeal even if the complainant does not prefer such an appeal, though of course such an appeal is with the leave of the court. However, it is not always necessary for the State or a complainant to prefer an appeal. But when it comes to a victim's right to prefer an appeal, the insistence on seeking special leave to appeal from the High Court under Section 378(4) of the CrPC would be contrary to what has been intended by the Parliament by insertion of the proviso to Section 372 of the CrPC.

Fourthly, the Parliament has not amended Section 378 to circumscribe the victim's right to prefer an appeal just as it has with regard to a complainant or the State filing an appeal. On the other hand, the Parliament has inserted the proviso to Section 372 so as to envisage a superior right for the victim of an offence to prefer an appeal on the grounds mentioned therein as compared to a complainant.

Fifthly, the involvement of the State in respect of an offence under Section 138 of the Act is conspicuous by its absence. This is because the complaint filed under that provision is in the nature of a private complaint as per Section 200 of the CrPC and Section 143 of the Act by an express intention incorporates the provisions of the CrPC in the matter of trial of such a deemed offence tried as a criminal offence. Therefore, the complainant, who is the victim of a dishonour of cheque must be construed to be victim in terms of the proviso to Section 372 read with the definition of victim under Section 2(wa) of the CrPC.”

4. In view of the judgment rendered by the Hon’ble Supreme Court in Celestium Financial (supra), this Court in Dharampal Vs. State of Haryana & Others in CRM-A-489-MA-2017 decided on 11.08.2025, the learned Sessions Judge, Jalandhar is directed to treat the present leave to appeal as an appeal filed under Section 372 of the Cr.P.C. and entrust the same to appropriate Court for its disposal.
5. The Registry is directed to send the complete paperbook and the record of the case to the learned Sessions Judge, Jalandhar forthwith.
6. Disposed of accordingly.
7. Pending miscellaneous applications, if any, also stands disposed of.
